

Chief Executive Officer

MÉTIS NATION BRITISH COLUMBIA

Surrey, BC

Reporting to the President and responsible to the Board of Directors, the primary objective of the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) is to provide the link between the Board and the operation in advancing the goals and purpose of MNBC. In that capacity, the CEO is accountable for the operational leadership and management of MNBC in accordance with the strategic goals and direction set by the Board. The CEO is expected to report to the Board on an ongoing basis in respect to issues and results and to bring forward recommendations in respect to policies, programs, services, and staff where applicable. The CEO sets targets, prepares annual business plans and budgets, oversees all operations and issues, delegates, and monitors performance. The CEO works with external partners and stakeholders to ensure opportunities for MNBC are leveraged in a way that secures its growth and sustainability and represents the organization in reporting to federal and provincial governments as required.

The ideal candidate brings senior executive experience in a growing, dynamic organization. He or she is a strategic and big picture thinker with natural leadership skills who possesses strong relationship building qualities and a commitment to delivering exceptional programs and services and best practices in governance. Flexible, responsive, and open-minded, the CEO recognizes the unique nature of what MNBC is doing and appreciates the impact this work will have for generations of Métis people in BC. The incumbent is known for his or her ability to develop credibility and effective, trusting working relationships with elected officials, staff, external stakeholders, and community members. Experience in human resource management and an ability to leverage opportunities for the well-being of the Nation will be a significant asset.
