

RECOGNIZING INDIGENOUS VOICES IN EARLY REHABILITATION (RIVER)

RIVER

Indigenous families of young children with cerebral palsy likely have unique experiences with early rehabilitation, like physical or occupational therapy, but this has not been explored.

WE'D LIKE TO LISTEN TO YOUR STORY

Families of children six years old or younger who have cerebral palsy are invited to participate in this research study. During a one hour online or in-person conversation, families will be invited to share their experiences with early rehabilitation with a Métis researcher. You will receive a $50 gift card in appreciation for your time.
